

Biography- Doug Garber

Doug Garber is a career educator and school administrator with over thirty years of experience in the field of secondary education. He received his Bachelor's and Master of Arts in Teaching degrees from the University of Louisville, in Louisville Kentucky, where he taught science for 18 years. Upon relocating to Miami, Mr. Garber continued as a science teacher in the Broward County School System and at Nova University's University School, teaching classes at both the middle and high school levels. He joined the faculty of Doctors Charter School of Miami Shores with the school's opening in 2005, serving first as a teacher and department chair, and later as Assistant and Interim Principal. He currently serves as the Principal of the Doctors Charter School Middle School. Mr. Garber received his Specialist in Education with a major in Educational Leadership from Barry University in 2010.